DR. JERRY BUSS, Chairman

In 1979, Jerry Buss ushered in an era of success unrivaled in the history of Southern California professional sports when he acquired the Los Angeles Lakers. In what was, at the time, the largest ever sports transaction, Buss purchased the Lakers, the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, The Great Western Forum and a 13,000-acre Kern County ranch in June of that year. Now embarking upon his 25th season at the helm of the winningest franchise in NBA history, Buss has his sights set upon adding to the eight Lakers championships under his watch and 14 overall titles.

The success of the Lakers is directly attributable to the combined efforts of great players, outstanding coaches, intelligent management and imaginative marketing. This teamwork, under Jerry Buss's direction, has helped create the enormous popularity and acceptance that the NBA enjoys today both nationally and abroad.

A graduate of the University of Wyoming with a Bachelor's degree in Chemistry, Buss earned his Ph. D in Physical Chemistry from the University of Southern California. After a brief career in the aerospace industry, Buss and Frank Mariani, an aerospace engineer, drew upon their scientific training to launch a career in real estate. For Buss, the venture was intended only to provide income which would enable him to pursue his love for teaching. Soon, however, the real estate firm of Mariani-Buss Associates was expanding so fast that its demands would not allow time for other professions.

Ultimately, Buss was able to parlay his original $1,000 investment in a West Los Angeles apartment building into assets that eventually enabled to him to achieve his second love, ownership of a major league sports team.

Since his entry into the NBA, Buss has initiated many innovative marketing changes including a major advertising agreement with Great Western Bank in 1988 that resulted in the Lakers' former home being named the Great Western Forum. Many of his marketing strategies are emulated today by various NBA franchises as well as teams in other leagues.

In addition to his role with the Lakers, Buss recently served two terms as President of the NBA Board of Governors. Among other accomplishments, he helped launch Prime Ticket Network (now FOX Sports Net West and FOX Sports Net West 2) in 1985. It shortly became the nation's premier regional sports cable network.

Of Buss's four grown children, all are still actively involved in his business operations. Jeanie was named Lakers Executive Vice President of Business Operations in June of 1999. Johnny is president of the Los Angeles Sparks, a charter member and two-time defending champion of the Women's National Basketball Association. Jim serves as an Assistant General Manager for the Lakers while Janie is the Director of Charitable Services. For all of his accomplishments in business, Buss is as equally respected for his philanthropic efforts on behalf of highly divergent causes. While he is specifically drawn to supporting education, the needs of disadvantaged youth and the elderly, his contributions are all encompassing.

For his efforts he has been honored by such organizations as the City of Hope, Urban League, NAACP, the B'nai B'rith, United Negro College Fund, United Indian Development Associations, American Hebrew University, National Organization of Women, Boys and Girls Clubs of America and the Los Angeles Human Relations Commission among many others. Additionally, he funds scholarships at his alma maters, Wyoming and USC, as well as having endowed the Magic Johnson Scholarship at Michigan State University. Buss also runs an annual celebrity golf tournament to support the YMCA-Junior Lakers and Shooting Sparks Basketball leagues for boys and girls as well as a dinner in support of the Union Rescue Mission and the Skid Row Charity Fund.

JOHNNY BUSS, President

Entering his eighth season at the helm of the Sparks, Johnny Buss has been a major driver in transforming the Los Angeles Sparks from a fledging start-up team to a legitimate WNBA contender. After an impressive 1999 campaign, where he guided the Sparks as Team President to the second best record in the WNBA (20-12) and an appearance in the Western Conference playoffs, Buss refused to be content and continued to build a model for success. Following in the footsteps of his father and Lakers owner, Dr. Jerry Buss, Buss focused on bringing championship caliber basketball to Los Angeles. He appointed Lakers legend Michael Cooper as Head Coach and hired Penny Toler, WNBA Entrepreneurial Spirit Award nominee and former Sparks franchise player, as General Manager. The Sparks responded by finishing the 2000 campaign with the WNBA's all-time best regular season record (28-4), while also securing home court advantage throughout the playoffs. Never satisfied at second best, Buss set the pace in 2001 with an off season trade that increased the size and strength of the Sparks, and produced another record breaking season. Completing the regular season with another League best 28-4 finish and a perfect 16-0 home win streak, the Sparks swept the four time WNBA Champion Houston Comets. In 2002, after posting the league's best regular season road record (13-3), the Sparks proceeded to win back-to-back championships. The first championship placed Buss and the City of Los Angeles in the history books as the only franchise to simultaneously hold the WNBA and NBA titles in the same year.

Known around the WNBA for his creative game presentation and promotions, Buss was the first to invest in such trend setting ideas as the SparKids, a hip-hop performance team, and the SparkZone, an interactive funzone, both of which have been widely emulated around the league. Also a firm believer in community service, Buss has encouraged fan-player interaction by overseeing more than 500 community appearances by Sparks's players and coaches in less than five years of existence. Buss was born in Los Angeles, the eldest of four children (brother Jim, sisters Jeanie and Janie) to Lakers owner Dr. Jerry Buss and his wife, JoAnn. His induction into sports came early. Buss began his sports management career in the 70's as a traveling secretary for professional tennis players of World Team Tennis. After successfully courting the tennis scene, Buss began promoting concerts at the Forum.

In the 1980's, Buss ventured to Las Vegas as an extension of the Buss family real estate company where he oversaw $70 million worth of residential property. His passion for sports soon called Buss back to Los Angeles to create and manage the Los Angeles Lazers of the Major Indoor Soccer League (MISL). After seven years with the MISL, Buss pursued his dreams of being a professional race car driver in San Diego, but ended his career shortly thereafter at the request of his loved ones.

VIRGINIA "PENNY" TOLER
General Manager

Widely recognized as the first player to score a basket in WNBA history, Virginia "Penny" Toler began her career with the Los Angeles Sparks as the starting point guard in the League's inaugural game on June 21, 1997 at the Great Western Forum. Originally allocated along with Lisa Leslie, as one of the two Los Angeles franchise players, Toler retired from professional basketball in November 1999 with a combined 12 years oversea/WNBA playing experience to become the second general manager in team history. Primarily responsible for player personnel and strategy, Toler accomplished in just two years what no other general manager in WNBA history has been able to do. Assembling a championship caliber team that would eventually dethrone the four-time WNBA champion Houston Comets, Toler and the Sparks delivered the first-ever WNBA Championship to the city of Los Angeles. Tolers' professional career has been an impressive one. Named to the USA Basketball Olympic Committee in her first year as general manager, Toler has already become an integral component in the USA's quest for an unprecedented fourth gold medal in 2004.

A businesswoman by nature, Toler began her "Points From Penny" program in 1998 to teach youth in the Los Angeles and Las Vegas areas, the fundamentals of basketball, the importance of teamwork and the value of competition. "Points" consisted of a series of basketball clinics personally instructed by Toler for boys and girls ages 7-14. The program was nominated for several awards during its tenure, including the American Express Entrepreneurial Spirit Award. Since that time she has focused on bringing the same type of community oriented programs to the Sparks front office. Developing the teams first-ever Academic Skills Basketball Clinic, Toler created a program that emphasized the importance of academic as well as physical success. Over 150 students attended the clinic that allowed college and career counselors from local universities the opportunity to speak with students about the delicate balance between education and sports. In addition, the entire Sparks team and coaching staff were on hand to instruct participants in various aspects of the game's dynamics.

As a believer in the power of education, Toler supports the notion that both parents and educators need to instill the benefits of athletics, on and off the court, early on in children. "Athletics teach children of all races to set and achieve their goals, be strong-willed, and have self-esteem," says Toler. "These skills will help them compete in the professional environment and help them learn to deal with the covert discrimination of our time. Sports have the ability to motivate and motivation equals success."

Toler was honored for her transition from the court to the executive suite during the Torrance Chamber of Commerce African American Heritage Celebration. Aptly titled The Professional Spirit award, Toler was recognized for her many accomplishments and commitment to excellence following her basketball career. Previous award recipients included 2003 presenter – Reggie Theus, former Laker All-Star – James Worthy, Olympic Great – Rafer Johnson and baseball legend – Tommy Hawkins.

Toler believes that equal devotion to athletic and academic pursuits is the key to motivating all young athletes. "Young athletes need someone to tell them it's okay to be a great athlete, but you need to have balance, this is reality...here's the real world."

Toler is a native of Washington D.C., her hobbies include real estate investment and working with underprivileged youth and battered women's shelters. She has three brothers and four sisters and currently resides in Los Angeles, CA.

He was also involved from inception in the negotiations, on behalf of the Lakers and Sparks, with the developers of the new and spectacular STAPLES Center.

The Sparks, under Head Coach Michael Cooper, have achieved a tremendous amount of success over the past 5 years. Entering his fifth campaign as a WNBA head coach with the Sparks, Cooper has guided the Sparks to their fifth straight WNBA playoff appearance, three straight WNBA Western Conference titles and two WNBA World Championship titles. In his third year as head coach, Cooper led the Sparks to the leagues best road record (13-3) and best overall regular season record (25-7) for the third consecutive season. The season was topped off with the Sparks going undefeated in the 2002 playoffs and wining their second WNBA World Championship. On May 30, 2003, Cooper had his 100th career win with the Sparks against the Seattle Storm.

Cooper, who earned the NBA Defensive Player of the Year in 1987 and a five-time All Defensive First Team member, has stressed the idea that defense wins championships. He was regarded as a defensive genius during his 11-year NBA career and has brought what he has learned to the Sparks.

Cooper joined the Sparks in 1999, as an assistant coach, and was an integral part of guiding the Sparks to a 20-12 record and the franchise's first-ever playoff berth. His hard work and intensity was rewarded by the Sparks when he was named Head Coach in November of 1999. In his first year as head coach, Cooper earned the 2000 WNBA Coach of the Year Award and led the Sparks to their best record in franchise history (28-4).

Cooper began his coaching career in March 1994 serving as a Lakers assistant coach under Head Coach Ervin "Magic" Johnson and later with Head Coach Del Harris in 1994-97. During this time the Lakers ranked among the NBA leaders in steals and blocked shots which established a Los Angeles record low in limiting opponents to only 98.5 ppg in the 1995-96 campaign.

Prior to his coaching stint with the Lakers, Cooper served as Special Assistant to General Manager Jerry West for almost three years. He scouted out college and Continental Basketball Association players as well as performed other related duties.

As one of the most popular Lakers in franchise history, the Los Angeles native played a vital role in capturing five championships with the Lakers (1980, '82, '85, '87, and '88). He was a third-round draft choice (60th Overall) by the Lakers in the 1978 NBA Draft after graduating from New Mexico.

Off the court, Cooper is a firm believer in community service and spent a great deal of the off-season donating countless hours to a variety of charitable organizations. Cooper also serves as an analyst for Fox Sports Net, ABC's Sports Zone and KVDM Big West Basketball while still managing to continue his many engagements as a public speaker.

Thompson was recruited out of Junior College by the University of Southern California in 1993, where she played starting guard with Sparks Center, Lisa Leslie and Houston Comets Forward Tina Thompson under Washington Mystics Head Coach Marianne Stanley. Sparks 2003 In Review

Sparks History

Established in 1997 as one of eight original teams in the WNBA, Los Angeles tipped off the WNBA Inaugural season on June 21, 1997 versus the New York Liberty at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, CA. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history enroute to a 67-57 victory for the Liberty. The League concluded the inaugural season with a league-wide attendance average of 10,207 fans per game. Los Angeles compiled an impressive 74-48 record in four seasons at the Great Western Forum before following their NBA counterparts, the Los Angeles Lakers, to STAPLES Center, located in the heart of downtown Los Angeles.

Led by former WNBA Coach of the Year, Michael Cooper, the Sparks went on to tie a League record and franchise best 28 wins in their WNBA debut at STAPLES Center in 2001. Posting a record-breaking 9-0 start to the 2001 campaign, Los Angeles completed the regular season undefeated at home with a WNBA best 16-0 mark. The Sparks also topped the League at No. 1 in points (76.3), defensive rebounds (.720), total rebounds (.39) and assists (18.3) per game and captured their first ever WNBA championship ñ sweeping the Eastern Conference Champion Charlotte Sting in the championship series. In 2002, the Sparks became the second team in WNBA history to repeat as Champions—going undefeated (6-0) through the playoffs en route to a sweep of the Eastern Conference Champion New York Liberty. The Los Angeles Sparks held an impressive 12-1 playoff record during their back-to-back championship seasons.

The 2003 season proved to be an injury riddled one for the Los Angeles Sparks. Resiliently, the Sparks overcame their injuries and went on to win the Western Conference Championship for a third consecutive season. The Sparks had a convincing Game 1 victory over the Detroit Shock 75-63. They were then faced with the scenario of trying to become the first team in WNBA history to win the Championship on the road. This feat nearly came to fruition as the Sparks overcame a 19 point deficit in Game 2 at Detroit, however, Detroit pulled out the nail-biter 61-61 to force a deciding Game 3. The deciding game, held at The Palace at Auburn Hills would be a historic event as it was home to the largest crowd in WNBA history—22,076. The Detroit Shockis victory was sealed by Deanna Nolan's three-point basket with 53 seconds remaining and perfect free throw shooting down the stretch.

The Sparks are coached by former Laker All-Star and NBA Defensive Player of the Year Michael Cooper. Former team point guard Penny Toler retired from basketball in November 1999 to become the first WNBA player in League history to go from the hardwood to the executive suite as General Manager of Player Personnel. Sparks President Johnny Buss has himself, been a major driver in transforming the Los Angeles Sparks from a fledgling start-up team to a force to be reckoned with throughout the WNBA. The Sparks are strongly committed to serving the Los Angeles community through programs that positively influence peopleís lives and promote the importance of a healthy, active lifestyle.

History of the WNBA

On April 24, 1996, women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June 1997.

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA: Val Ackerman -- the first president of the WNBA; Sheryl Swoopes -- the first player signed to the WNBA; Cynthia Cooper -- the league's first Most Valuable Player; the Houston Comets -- the first WNBA Champions; Lisa Leslie -- the first WNBA player to dunk.

However, the very first for the league was a "to-do list." With less than 15 months to tipoff, a league of its own began to unfold for the WNBA as each task was completed. The history of the WNBA follows:

On the Air . . .

Before a player was signed or a staff member was in place, the league announced its broadcast partnerships with NBC, ESPN and Lifetime Television. It was decided that the WNBA season would be played in the summer when the sports calendar was less crowded and the games could be televised live. During a successful inaugural season, more than 50 million viewers watched WNBA games on the three networks.

ESPN2 joined NBC and ESPN to televise WNBA games beginning in 2001 and carried live coverage of the WNBA Draft. Lifetime, which had carried games during the first four seasons, continued as a partner through 2002, presenting Players' Journal, a weekly half-hour magazine show highlighting the on and off-court lives of the league's players and coaches.

Oxygen Media signed on to televise WNBA games in 2002, and ABC Sports became a new partner through a six-year agreement that extended the WNBA's national television coverage through 2008, its 12th season. Telemundo, the fastest growing Spanish language television network in the U.S., and NBA TV, the league's 24-hour television network, also joined ABC, ESPN, ESPN2 and Oxygen in carrying WNBA games beginning with the 2003 season.

WNBA games and programming reached the largest global audience since the league's inception in 2003, with WNBA content broadcast to 183 countries in 26 languages. The league delivers an audience unique in sports. In-arena, gender breakdown is approximately 80-20 female-male. The TV audience is about 50-50 female-male, with a strong percentage of non-adult viewers.

The Players and the Teams. . .

The first of the player signings was announced on October 23, 1996, with Sheryl Swoopes and Rebecca Lobo joining the league. The duo was soon followed by Lisa Leslie, Ruthie Bolton, Cynthia Cooper, Michele Timms (the first international player) and many more WNBA hopefuls.

Eight teams were announced for the league's inaugural season. The Eastern Conference consisted of the Charlotte Sting, Cleveland Rockers, Houston Comets and New York Liberty while the Western Conference was comprised of the Los Angeles Sparks, Phoenix Mercury, Sacramento Monarchs and Utah Starzz.

On April 29, 1999, the WNBA and the Women's National Basketball Players Association (WNBPA) announced the league's first collective bargaining agreement – a first of its kind in women's team sports.

By 2000, the league had expanded to 16 teams, with the Detroit Shock and Washington Mystics joining the league in 1998, the Minnesota Lynx and Orlando Miracle in 1999, and the Indiana Fever, Miami Sol, Portland Fire and Seattle Storm in 2000.

The 2002 season saw 176 women play professional basketball in 256 regular-season WNBA games (schedule history: 34 games in 2003; 32 games from 1999-2002; 30 in 1998; 28 in 1997). Continuing to showcase talented stars from around the world, the league featured 45 players from 22 countries.

In October 2002, the NBA Board of Governors voted to restructure the WNBA to allow individual team ownership, and to allow teams to be owned by non-NBA owners and located in non-NBA markets. Orlando, Miami, Portland and Utah elected not to assume ownership of their teams, and in December, the WNBA announced the relocation of the Utah Starzz to San Antonio, which had previously been awarded a WNBA franchise. The team would be named the Silver Stars.

On January 28, 2003, the Connecticut Sun were awarded the Orlando Miracle and became the newest WNBA franchise, with the Mohegan Tribe of Indians becoming the first non-NBA owner in league history.

On April 25, 2003, the WNBA and the WNBAPA signed its second collective bargaining agreement which gave WNBA players the first free agency rights in women's professional team sports.

On September 19, 2003, the Cleveland Cavaliers \ Gund Arena Company announced that they decided they would no longer operate the Cleveland Rockers.

The WNBA Draft . . .

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the Inaugural WNBA Draft. Margo Dydek, a 7-2 center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starzz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdsclaw was the Washington Mystics' No. 1 selection in the 1999 Draft. In 2000, the Cleveland Rockers selected Ann Wauters from Belgium as the first overall pick, and Australian Olympian Lauren Jackson went to the Seattle Storm with the No. 1 selection in 2001. In 2002, National Player of the Year Sue Bird was selected by Seattle, who had the top pick for the second consecutive year by virtue of the WNBA's first Draft Lottery, held in New York on November 13, 2001. The Cleveland Rockers made Latoya Thomas of Mississippi State the No. 1 selection in the 2003 WNBA Draft held Friday, April 25, 2003.

The Logos and the Uniforms . . .

With players and teams in place, the league began its next task of creating logos and uniforms. The red, white and blue official WNBA logo – "Logo Woman" – was selected from about 50 different designs. After developing an extensive list of choices, the team names were selected by the league and the teams based on numerous factors, including: a tie to the NBA team name in that market, a link to a key characteristic of each city or state and/or the creation of a name fitting the current sports landscape. The uniforms also underwent several designs, and on May 21, 1997, the WNBA unveiled the team uniforms -- two shorts silhouettes and three jerseys.

On May 1, 2003, the WNBA and Reebok unveiled new uniform designs which were created to maximize performance and provide optimal comfort for the players. The jerseys are tapered to fit a woman's body and are designed to be worn untucked, providing a free range of motion for the players. The new uniforms features flat-back mesh material that incorporates Play Dry™ technology – Reebok's moisture management system that helps keep the athlete cooler, drier and more comfortable by using temperature and humidity-regulating properties in the fabric.

The WNBA and Reebok also unveiled a new style in the WNBA Footwear Collection by Reebok – the WNBA Isolation – at the beginning of the 2003 season. This shoe features the WNBA logo on the heel, tongue, sole and sock liner.

It's a Ball Game . . .

The WNBA game consists of a 30-second clock, a 20-foot, 6 _ -inch three-point line, two 20-minute halves, eleven-player rosters and a collegiate-regulation size ball. The WNBA's signature orange-and-oatmeal basketball by Spalding is 28.5 inches in circumference and one inch smaller than the NBA's regulation ball. In January 2003, Spalding Sports Worldwide and the WNBA announced the Spalding WNBA Infusion basketball, featuring a built-in, dual action Micro Pump®, as the new official game ball of the league beginning in the 2003 season.

Millions of Fans Join In . . .

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997, with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, Calif. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks 67-57. Then on August 22, the WNBA league attendance surpassed the 1 million mark at America West Arena in Phoenix. In 2001, the WNBA welcomed its 10 millionth fan on September 1 at the STAPLES Center in Los Angeles. In 2002, more than 2.5 million fans attended WNBA games for the second straight year, as regular-season attendance averaged more than 9,000 fans for the sixth straight season. In 2003, the WNBA season attendance topped the 2 million for the fourth consecutive year.

In the Community . . .

For the WNBA, the focus has been three primary outreach initiatives: Read to Achieve, a year-round, league-wide initiative that promotes the value of reading and on-line literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children; the Breast Health Awareness program, an initiative designed to draw national attention to the issue of breast cancer and the importance of early detection; and the Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA, a support organization for recreational youth basketball leagues that connects players, parents and coaches in an effort to heighten awareness and participation in youth basketball. In 2003, the league debuted its WNBA Mind. Body. Spirit. campaign, which encompasses the Breast Health Awareness program but also focuses on nutrition, exercise and positive self-image.

League Showcases All-Stars . . .

On July 14, 1999, the league held the inaugural WNBA All-Star Game at Madison Square Garden in New York, televised live on ESPN. The capacity crowd of 18,649 witnessed the incredible sportsmanship, teamwork, enthusiasm, fan involvement and in-arena excitement that characterizes the WNBA. The Western Conference All-Stars – led by the game's Most Valuable Player and Los Angeles Sparks center Lisa Leslie – defeated the Eastern Conference 79-61.

All-Star excitement continued in 2000 as the game moved to the America West Arena in Phoenix on July 17. The West All-Stars defeated the East All-Stars 73-61 before a crowd of 17,717 as Houston's Tina Thompson captured MVP honors. Leslie earned her second All-Star MVP award at the 2001 WNBA All-Star Game, played at the TD Waterhouse Centre in Orlando, Fla., on July 16 in front of 16,906 fans. The West claimed its third victory with an 80-72 defeat of the East. The 2002 WNBA All-Star Game was played on Monday, July 15 in Washington, D.C., at the MCI Center. The West All-Stars defeated the East All-Stars 81-76 in front of a crowd of 19,487, with Leslie earning MVP honors for the third time. ESPN televised the game live through the 2002 game.

In 2003, the WNBA All-Star Game marked its fifth anniversary with a return to Madison Square Garden on July 12. The event was held on the weekend for the first time and made its network television debut on ABC. The West All-Stars won the event for the fifth straight year by beating the East All-Stars 84-75 in front of 18,610 fans, with Nikki Teasley of the Los Angeles Sparks taking home the MVP honors.

WNBA Finals...

The first four years of the WNBA saw the Houston Comets dominate the league Finals and create the first dynasty of the WNBA. The Comets captured the inaugural Championship against New York on August 30, 1997 by a score of 65-51. Comets guard, Cynthia Cooper won the first Finals MVP award. In 1998, the WNBA Finals was expanded to a three-game series and Houston defeated Phoenix two games to one and Houston's Cynthia Cooper captured her second consecutive Finals MVP award. In 1999, New York advanced back to the Championship and played Houston, a rematch of the 1997 Championship game. The Comets out lasted the Liberty to win their third straight WNBA Championship, two games to one and Houston's Cynthia Cooper won her third Finals MVP award. In 2000, Houston and New York played for the third time in four years with the results the same as the previous years with Houston winning their fourth straight WNBA Championship, two games to none and Houston's Cynthia Cooper captured her fourth straight Finals MVP award. In 2001, Los Angeles knocked off Houston in the early rounds of the Western Conference playoffs and advanced on to meet Charlotte in the WNBA Finals. Los Angeles, behind the play of Finals MVP Lisa Leslie, won the WNBA Finals two games to none. In 2002, Los Angeles advanced to the WNBA Finals and earned the right to defend their WNBA championship versus New York. The Sparks defeated the Liberty two games to zero and won their second consecutive Finals and Lisa Leslie won the WNBA Finals MVP award for the second straight year.

In 2003, the Los Angeles Sparks returned to the Finals with the opportunity to win three straight WNBA Championships. However, the Detroit Shock advanced through the Eastern Conference and reached the Finals and because they finished the regular season with the best record in the league, they earned home court advantage for the Finals. It ended up be vital as the Sparks won the first game in Los Angeles to take a one game to zero lead. Detroit bounced back to win game two, 62-61 to even the series one game a piece. The third and final game was played in front of a sell out crowd and record attendance for the WNBA of 22,076. The Shock captured the WNBA crown winning the game by a score of 83-78 as Detroit center Ruth Riley was awarded the Series MVP.

WNBA in the Community

The WNBA connects with fans of all ages through extensive community outreach. As we mark the eighth season of the WNBA, our players continue to be recognized for their commitment and dedication to fans in cities across America. The WNBA has three primary community initiatives: WNBA Mind. Body. Spirit., WNBA Read to Achieve and Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA presented by Gatorade and Nike. In addition to these initiatives, the WNBA honors players who are active in their communities with the WNBA Community Assist Award presented four times a year.

WNBA Mind. Body. Spirit.

The WNBA Mind. Body. Spirit. program is the league's primary cause-related campaign focusing on two main components – nutrition, exercise and positive self-image and breast health awareness. The platform focuses on the development and execution of events and programs that emphasize the importance of good nutrition, regular exercise and positive-self image and targets our youth fan base as well as their families.

The WNBA Breast Health Awareness program focuses on generating awareness and educating women about breast cancer in addition to raising funds for the initiative. For the second year, the WNBA is proud to have the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation as a partner and beneficiary of the program. In 2003, the WNBA and its teams raised more than $150,000 to benefit the Komen Foundation. Breast health information will be distributed to fans during in-arena awareness nights and a breast health awareness public service announcement will air on nationally televised games and in-arena. Once again, fans will have the opportunity to log onto WNBA.com to bid on their favorite item featured in the Breast Health Awareness Auction. All proceeds from these items, including games of HORSE with WNBA stars, All-Star memorabilia and WNBA autographed items, will benefit the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

WNBA Read to Achieve

Read to Achieve is a year-round, league-wide initiative supported by NBA, WNBA and NBDL teams that promotes the values of reading and on-line literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children. The program includes thousands of reading time-outs, the donation of books and literacy materials, and the creation of Reading and Learning Centers and Reading Corners throughout the world.

National and local All-Star Reading Teams have been formed consisting of current and former NBA and WNBA players and other members of the NBA and WNBA family, who promote reading efforts through in-arena events, public service announcements and school and community appearances throughout the year.

Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA Presented by Gatorade and Nike

The Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA, presented by Gatorade and Nike, is a support organization for recreational youth basketball leagues in the United States, Canada and abroad that connects players, parents, coaches and officials to heighten awareness and participation in youth basketball. Approximately 1,000 youth basketball leagues and about 50,000 teams (for boys and girls, ages 5-14 years-old) are 2003-2004 Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA members. Additionally, 100,000 coaches and 500,000 players and their parents receive program support and materials. WNBA players and coaches make drop-in visits and participate in special events with Jr. WNBA leagues across the country.

Sparks in the Community

Johnny Buss and the Los Angeles Sparks are strongly committed to serving the Los Angeles community through programs that positively influence peoples' lives and promote the importance of a healthy, active lifestyle.

The Sparks have partnered with the Los Angeles Unified School District to express the importance of literacy. As a partner in the "Reading by Nine" campaign, the Sparks provide complementary tickets to those who donate a book during the season at the book-drive held at STAPLES Center.

Mwadi Mabika spoke at a variety of schools, universities and local corporations to promote the Sparks during the off-season. She shared stories from her childhood in Africa and spoke to kids about the importance of reading and education. Mabika even delivered cupcakes to contest winners in Los Angeles for Valentine's Day!

The Sparks host an annual clinic for over 100 junior high and high school students during the season, which focuses on academics and athletics. College counselors and qualified instructors team up with the Sparks to bring this quality clinic to the youth in Los Angeles.

The Sparks teamed up with the YMCA to facilitate girls' basketball through the "Shooting Sparks League." The League served over 6,000 girls, ranging from 5-18 years of age, in the greater Los Angeles area. Since its inception, the "Shooting Sparks" has grown to be one of the largest WNBA/Nike sponsored leagues in the nation.

The Sparks are also committed to helping the WNBA and NABCO (National Alliance of Breast Cancer Organizations) to promote Breast Cancer Awareness. Since 1997, Sparks center, Lisa Leslie has served as the spokesperson for Breast Health Awareness. Leslie utilizes her name recognition and personal involvement, to garner positive attention for the Breast Health Awareness. Annually, the Sparks and NABCO team up to host a league-sanctioned official Breast Health Awareness Night. Centinela Hospital, the official health care provider for the Sparks, also encourages everyone to get regular mammograms for early detection of breast cancer.

In its third season, the Hoopster-Booster Club has gained respect among the Sparks team, as they are the encouraging force in the stands. Its members enjoy unique features including, a potluck meal with players, as well as a post-game reception. All gold members of the Club have the chance to be an honorary coach for one of the Sparks home games. Booster members also have exclusive pre-registration privileges for Sparks Hoopster-Booster Club road trips.

The Sparks Fundraiser Program allows local schools to earn money by selling Sparks tickets. The Sparks sell tickets to the school at a discounted rate and in return, they sell the tickets at face value. This provides the school with an opportunity to raise money in a non-traditional manner.

The Sparks team up with "CHiP's For Kids" to offer sick kids holiday comfort. The Los Angeles Sparks along with the CHiP's mascot, Chipper the Chipmunk, travel throughout Los Angeles collecting and delivering toys to local hospitals. Along with the help of Santa, the California Highway Patrol and the Sparks brighten many lives.

The Sparks donate game tickets to thousands of charitable organizations. Organizations are eligible to receive Sparks tickets by sending in a request to the Sparks Community Relations department. The Sparks are currently supporting over 100 local "at-risk" youth organizations in Los Angeles by providing them an opportunity to attend a home game at STAPLES Center.

Healthsouth Training Center

On April 28, 1999, the Los Angeles Lakers, the Los Angeles Sparks and the NHL's Los Angeles Kings officially "broke ground" on the new $24 million HealthSouth Training Center. Located at 555 N. Nash Street in El Segundo, the training center is built on a six-acre site which is part of the new Grand Avenue Corporate Center. The training center includes a basketball court, a pro shop, two public ice rinks and outdoor in-line skating rink, a restaurant and an interactive game studio as well as locker rooms, training facilities and office spaces for Lakers, Sparks and Kings.

The state-of-the-art training facilities at the disposal of the teams and support staff include a weight room that boasts over 10,000 pounds of equipment. The York performance series equipment is specifically designed and customized for use by larger athletes.

Also contained within the weight room are Olympic lifting platforms, the latest balance training equipment and a vast array of cardiovascular equipment. The Lakers/Sparks basketball court boasts a plyometric area, the first of its kind built into the basketball floor to help enhance the jumping ability and explosiveness of team members.

Other amenities of the training center include a therapy pool for the rehabilitation of injuries as well as cardiovascular exercise, a steam room, a nutrition and supplement station and a 19-seat theater-style viewing room which the players and coaching staff use to watch video and conduct meetings.

Designed by the Drezner group of Los Angeles, the facility became the home of the Lakers and Sparks players and staff in February of 2000.
